

Light behavior in a petrographic microscope with light polarizing device. Only one incident wavelength is shown (monochromatic light). The magnetic field, perpendicular to the electric one, is not drawn.